TYPE OF DEPOT BEING CONSTRUCTED BY THE PORTLAND, EUGENE & EASTERN RAILWAY COMPANY.

NEW STATIONS TO BE BUILT AT ONCE AT FOREST GROVE AND M'MINNVILLE.

Contracts have been awarded for the construction of new depot buildings for the Portland, Eugene & Eastern Railway at Forest Grove and McMinville. When completed they will cost approximately $5000 each and will be of red brick veneer. The Portland, Eugene & Eastern will electrify and take over the operation of the old steam roads belonging to the Southern Pacific system on the west side of the Willamette River, and will construct new lines between Portland and Salem, from Canby to Salem through the Molalla Valley and from Monroe to Eugene, besides numerous shorter interurban roads. The old depots at McMinville and Forest Grove will be used as freight stations.

Twenty miles of poles have been erected along the steam roads running out of Portland, while 50 miles of rails are now ready for electric operation.
