City of McMinnville Facilities and Recreation Programs Master Plan

Two of McMinnville's three indoor recreation facilities have been assessed as being in poor condition. The City has established an advisory committee to develop and deliver recommendations to City, with a focus on recreation and cultural facilities and planning.

Your Future

It takes many parts for our city to have vital parks and recreation programs. It's a lot like tending your garden. The seed (facilities) require soil, rain (city staff and programs) and sunshine (local community support) to grow and thrive. In turn, this garden nourishes the community with a better life.

Communities that are interested in providing a higher quality of life and stronger community livability will invest in a project like this.

Investing in a new facility and more staffing ensures that the community has the right types of programming spaces to be able to generate the revenues to reinvest back into the community and their quality of life.
